The congruence classes are distinct by the following argument: assume there exist